

Eternal Return and Will to Power: Metaphysics or Metapsychology?

Francisco Fianco*

Abstract:

The present article intends to highlight an interpretation of the concepts of Eternal Return and Will to Power not as metaphysical categories or that could be part of objective and empirical reality, as one could think from a cosmological interpretation of nietzschean thought. On the contrary, we refer to an interpretation of them as psychological concepts, or metapsychological, as we are able to chain them to some thoughts about human psiquè later developed by Freud, which could have been inspired, although this was never confessed, on nietzschean thoughts. Our main goal is to demonstrate how these concepts would work in subjective reality and in which way they could be better interpreted as psychological types rather than as metaphysical categories.

Key-words: Eternal return; Will to Power; Metapsychology.
