

Christian morals according to the logic of the will to power

Diogo Bogéa*

Abstract:

Our aim in this paper is to present the constitution and operation logic of Christian morality, based on the worldview developed by Nietzsche in his maturity, which has as fundamental principles the will to power and the theory of forces. According to this conception, the world is composed by forces in conflict, admitting no instance “beyond”, “per se”, “sacred”, as Christian morality intends to be. With support from The Genealogy of morals, we’ll show that morality is a configuration of forces produced within the world itself and, as such, perspective, interested and acting as a tool of domination, accumulation and expansion of power.

Keywords: Christian morality, will to power, forces

---

* Mestrando em Filosofia pela PUC-Rio (com bolsa Cnpq), Rio de Janeiro, RJ, Brasil. Contato: diogobogéaa@hotmail.com